REPRESENTATIVE OVERSTREET HAD A FINE AUDIENCE.

His Remarks and Those of the Other Speakers Were Well Received -Points Covered.

Representative Jesse Overstreet ad dressed a large audience of Republicans in the reading room at Haughville last night. John L. Ketcham, of the Brown-Ketcham iron works, presided, and made a short speech, and brief addresses were also made by James A. Collins and Frederick E. Matson, the latter a candidate for state sena-

The reading room was crowded, and many people who were unable to find seats stood up rather than leave. The audience was composed chiefly of men from the different shops in Haughville and vicinity.

Prior to the speaking there was music by the Marion Glee Club. James A. Collins Frank B. Burke, Mr. Overstreet's opponent. He spoke of Mr. Burke's remark about the American flag, "We take off our bat to no flag," and said: "If that is to be the issue in this campaign we will show Mr. Burke where the Seventh district

John L. Ketcham, in introducing Mr. Overstreet, paid him some handsome compliments, which were applauded by the audience. Mr. Overstreet, in his opening remarks, said some very nice things about Mr. Ketcham, which were also applauded. Mr. Overstreet made a speech in which he covered all of the issues of the campaign ir. a thorough way. He talked of prosperity, trusts and imperialism, effectually answering the arguments that Democratic orators have made before Haughville audiences. One of the striking features of his talk pertained to a conversation he had some time ago with the manager of the Alis machine works of Milwaukee. This is one of the largest establishments in the country. The manager told Mr. Overstreet that in 1896 they were employing about 1200 men. At the time of the conversation the establishment was employing 2,500 men. The manager also told Mr. Overstreet that they had plans grawn for improvements that would cost a great deal of money, and they proposed to go on with these improvements in the event of McKinley's reelection. Mr. Overstreet related this story as an illustration of what the administration of President McKinley has done for

Frederick E. Matson closed the meeting ir a stirring talk. He made a hit by telling the audience of some observations recently made by Colonel Clark, of the Rough Riders. Colonel Clark asked Mr. Matson one day why a Populist was like a frog. When Matson gave it up Clark said: "Because he has a green back, a silver belly, and you never know which way he's going

Mr. Bryan arrived in Newark a few minutes past 7 o'clock, and here the scenes which were witnessed in Jersey City last night were repeated on a somewhat smaller scale. The streets were thronged with people and the pathway of the Democratic standard bearer was illuminated with front of the Smith mansion a vast multi- the only lineal heir. In a suit for settle tude of people were assembled, and they cheered heartily when Mr. Bryan and his committeemen and marching clubs arrived at that point. The speeches largely attended, and that Mr. Bryan's admirers were in "the saddle" was amply attested by the applause which greeted him has been decided in a St. Clair county case.

David S. Sage and wife were killed in a terrible storm that swept over the count, four years ago. Their bodies were found ment of the estate the question arose as t which had died first. If Sage, then his wife's relations would be entitled to her guilty in the case of Armour & Co. award, consisting of dower and homestead. If his wife died first, then her relatives would be entitled to nothing, but the whole fall to Miss Mabel Sage, the daughter. There was no way of proving which had died first, and the court held that since woman, physically, is weaker than man Mrs. Sage must have died first, and upon this hypothesis awarded the estate to the daughter. of the city's liability.

It is understood that this nonaction of the powers is not due to any concerted movement among them, although each appears to be halting on the third clause. A diplomatic official said to-day that on mature consideration of this third clause it was seen to involve two constructions; first, that if any power took territory in China as a result of the present trouble, then Germany and Great Britain also would take territory, or, second, that if any country took territory in China, Germany and Great Britain would seek to prevent this action, or otherwise jointly act against the country seeking to extend its domains. Either construction, it was pointed out, was such that the powers not party to the agreement could not be expected to bind themselves to its acceptance, Under these circumstances it was said that the powers probably would seek to learn sity of Pennsylvania team at Philadelphia Russia's views on the third clause, as Rus- to-morrow the elevens of Michigan and Illisian approval undoubtedly would remove the idea that there is any possible menace intended.
